SUMMARY

My career as a decision factor within the Ministry of Finance of Romania offered first hand experience and knowledge of the transition period (1997- 2000) involving negotiations and follow ups of the stand-by agreements with IMF and World Bank, loan agreements from EBRD, EIB and other IFI's, restructuring programmes in all sectors of the Romanian economy, monitoring and evaluating the impact of these measures on the respective economy sectors.

Later on, as an Alternate EBRD Director I was involved in drafting the country strategies and contribute to the actions of the Institution aimed at fostering transition to open market-oriented economies which provided a good understanding of the challenges and achievements of the operation countries in their efforts to develop effective market economies.

I continued my professional engagements by approaching the Romanian banking sector and holding President & CEO positions allowing me to use my abilities in building and motivating strong management teams able to fulfill specific objectives set up by the shareholders.

As President & CEO of Raiffeisen Bank for Housing S.A. – the first Romanian bank for savings/loans for housing purposes I was responsible for launching a whole new banking concept on the national banking market. I personally supervised the recruiting of the management and execution teams in order to ensure their adequacy to the ambitious goals of positioning the new bank, encouraging them to develop new skills and selling techniques able to support reaching of the business targets. I took up the challenge of drafting the business strategy as per the demanding conditions of a start up operation combined with the profitability objectives set by the shareholders and reached them every year.

My position as President & CEO of EximBank Romania offered me a new perspective on the challenges of strategic thinking for banking sector as I was responsible for consolidating the position of EximBank on the Romanian market.
